

PWI NSW Newsletter December 2018

What a year it's been!

Well, that was a whirlwind of a year! From Sydney Metro tunnels to light rail commissioning, nation-building projects like Inland Rail and maintenance that provides for a safe railway, the rail industry is buzzing. With exciting new rail projects being planned, constructed and delivered, smart new innovations improving the way we do work and outstanding achievements in all areas what we do, it's a great time to be part of the rail family.

All of this was showcased at the PWI Annual Convention held in November, with insightful presentations, awards recognising the amazing work being performed every day and a thought-provoking panel session. A full run down of the day is provided in this issue.

We always strive to deliver more for our members, and this year we had our inaugural PWI Executive Breakfast meeting with special guest Rod Staples, Secretary of Transport for NSW.

In this issue...

I PWI Annual Convention

1 November Technical Meeting

We also hosted six technical meetings and a sellout Winter Dinner held at Doltone House.

But we're looking to do even more next year, and have started planning for next year's Annual Convention. The theme for the 2019 Convention will be 'Rail - Better by a Country Mile'.

This year's Winter Dinner is sponsored by Lendlease so make sure you get in early and secure your place.

Thank you to our corporate members for your support in 2018 for helping us deliver a successful year.

On behalf of the PWI NSW Committee, have a safe and relaxing festive season, and see you in 2019.

2018 Annual Convention Wrap-Up

This year's PWI NSW Annual Convention took a broad look at the rail industry and the role that we play in bringing different modes of travel together and delivering an efficient transport network for both passengers and freight. As always, the convention represents one of the best value one-day conferences on the rail industry calendar.

Held on Friday 9th November at the International Convention Centre, almost 400 delegates joined us for the day as we took a wide-ranging look at the multimodal aspects of the rail industry.

Keynote speaker John Lee - CEO of Australian Sailing, Board Member for Cross River Rail Delivery Authority and former Director General for NSW Transport among other high-profile postings

- opened proceedings with an energetic and inquisitive address that asked the question "What would John Bradfield think of today's transport network?".

Our presentations throughout the day were from a wide-range of perspectives. John Karaboulis, Executive Director, Service Delivery & Asset Management at Transport for NSW kicked things off with an overview of the multimodal transport service and asset portfolio that is managed by Transport for NSW. He elaborated on a new generation of public transport service contracts, including the recent Station Link services, Sydney Ferries services, bus strategy opportunities to facilitate future projects such as Sydney Metro and Parramatta Light Rail, and operations and maintenance of the Country Regional Network.

2018 Annual Convention Wrap-Up

Mark Dunlop, General Manager of Keolis Downer Hunter outlined how the customer experience has been improved in Newcastle through timetable harmonisation, improved passenger information, on-demand services and provision of infrastructure that facilitates easy interchange.

David Neeves, General Manager of Gilgandra Shire Council provided a stakeholder's perspective of Inland Rail; taking a proactive approach to become part of the solution. While working with the community to represent affected land owners and advocate for community consultation and social performance measures, David outlined Council's strategy to capitalise on this nation-building project. This included informing themselves with the basics of rail construction to then undertake an opportunity assessment and ultimately develop projects to support the construction of Inland Rail.

Finally, Steven La from E3 Advisory provided an insight into Integrated Transport Development and the shift in thinking around rail infrastructure projects as catalysts for urban development and renewal with a stronger focus on integrated land use and development.

2018 Annual Convention Wrap-Up

Our afternoon panel session was hosted by Jacqueline Linke, and included Tanya Johnstone – Director Transformation, NSW TrainLink; Samiha Najem – Senior Manager Strategic Asset Management, Transport for NSW; Abdul Jamal – Design Engineer, John Holland; Darren Hayward - NSW/ACT Rail Manager, John Holland and Howard Collins OBE – Chief Executive, Sydney Trains.

The day was capped off with the post-convention networking event sponsored by WSP, held at the Watershed Hotel and attended by over 280 delegates.

Thank you to all of our enhanced corporate members for their continuing support which allows us to organise events such as this. Planning is already underway for the 2019 PWI Annual Convention – 'Rail – Better by a Country Mile'.

Throughout the day, we continued the tradition of recognising outstanding performers in the rail industry, and the 2018 PWI NSW award winners are listed overleaf.

PWI NSW Awards Nominations

Presentation and recognition of permanent way achievement in the past 12 months not only acknowledges efforts, it is also an opportunity to advertise your achievements amongst industry peers and prospective clients.

To nominate you must be a financial PWI NSW member or have at least one financial PWI NSW member in your team.

We want our managers and leaders for all our member organisations to encourage both individual and teams to nominate for these prestigious awards in 2019.

All Award submissions, except the Young Achiever Award, close at the end of July each year with projects completed in the previous 12 months eligible for entry.

Submission templates, criteria and other relevant information for each award category can be found on the PWI website: pwinsw.org.au/awards

Technical Meeting Wrap-Up - November 2018

JMD Railtech provides signalling services from concept to completion including design, construction, wiring, testing, commissioning, training, competency assessments, engineering assurance and risk management.

Our November PWI Technical Meeting was held on was held on Thursday 15th November 2018 and was proudly sponsored by JMD Railtech.

Managing staff competence in the rail industry isn't a new concept, but it is one that seems to cause both the employee and the employer one of the biggest headaches. In an industry that is moving more towards self-management and assurance, this is a crucial area for AEOs to get right.

Trevor Moore (formerly ARTC) presented on the importance of developing and maintaining staff competence, including the benefits of a positive mindset to competency management, proactive vs reactive competency management, best practice for competence management, and managing a workforce with multiple competency framework requirements.

Welcome to our new Gold Enhanced PWI member, Progress Rail.

Progress Rail, a Caterpillar company, is one of the largest integrated and diversified providers of rolling stock and infrastructure solutions and technologies for global rail customers, with nearly 200 facilities in 16 countries.

Progress Rail's Australian head office is based in Rhodes, Sydney, where a team of 30 highly skilled engineers and designers are responsible for designing EMD's GT platform locomotives for the international market.

Progress Rail's Infrastructure team also has a significant presence in Australia following the acquisition of the switch and crossing manufacturing arm of Pacific Rail Engineering. This team has approximately 35 people, operating a manufacturing facility in Revesby, New South Wales. In addition to switch and crossing work, the group also provides complete infrastructure product offerings including flash butt welding, maintenance of way equipment and signaling/asset protection products.
